Update from the City Huntington Park about COVID-19

There has NOT been a report of the COVID-19 in the City of Huntington Park; our staff is closely monitoring the rapidly evolving COVID-19 situation and preparing in the event of any possible disruptions. The health and well-being of our residents remain our top priority.

The City of Huntington Park is taking all health and safety preventative measures by coordinating with the Los Angeles County Department of Public Health (Public Health), this is the local agency that is taking the lead in the prevention of the spread of novel coronavirus.

For information on the status of the virus, the City of Huntington Park recommends reliable sources of information such as the Los Angeles County Public Health Department, the Centers for Disease Control \(CDC\) and the World Health Organization \(WHO\).

The City of Huntington Park encourages the community to continue to stay informed and use the resources we have provided to avoid community spread within our community. Providing a safe, healthy environment is our highest priority.
